

the dichotomy of lovely things

Hari Kumar

A passing obsession hangs oh-so-delicately around the train, misting up the windows and just begging to be let in for the next part of the journey.

